

Property History

North Canaan is located at the junctions of Route 44 and Route 7 in the northwest corner of Connecticut. The town was incorporated in 1858 when it separated from the Town of Canaan (Falls Village). The town is governed by a Board of Selectmen, Board of Finance and traditional New England style Town Meeting.

Project Description

Grand Light manufactured several custom designed outdoor lighting fixtures which were installed on poles throughout the downtown section of the town.

Drawings were submitted by the town to Grand Light. Upon review of the drawings, Grand Light began to fabricate the tooling necessary in order to make the components required for the custom fixtures.

Following all of the tooling necessary to fabricate, complete components had emerged. All components received a powder coat finish which was identical to the production poles that the town was going to be using to hang the fixtures. Large glass cylinders had to be made for the interior of the fixture. They provided another decorative element and had been sandblasted to diffuse the harshness of the specified metal halide lamp.

Completed fixtures were each individually packaged and delivered by Grand Light to the town garage.
